Professional Courseware Testing

Mission

Courseware Testing and Project Management

One of the world's leading software companies requires an independent software testing solution for their internal training and courseware group. This group was responsible for creating training materials for the company's latest software releases, aimed at maintaining their partners' proficiency and competency. They sought Quardev's expertise in software testing to ensure the release of high-quality training materials.

Solution

In an ongoing partnership, Quardev provided outsourced compatibility testing, content and functionality testing, as well as technical and project management feedback throughout the courseware development and implementation phases. With a dedicated team of test engineers, we delivered tailored testing solutions while maintaining the flexibility to scale up support during periods of intensive courseware development.

Results

Our client prioritizes the competency and efficiency of their partners, aiming to provide technically accurate, efficient, and comprehensive training solutions to meet partner needs. Thanks to Quardev's efforts, this internal group consistently releases high-quality courseware solutions across various media platforms.
